

- Nautilus Welcoming Home Ceremony

Members of the public joined senior Navy leaders, government and state officials, and veterans and friends of the world's first nuclear powered submarine, USS Nautilus (SSN 571), in celebrating the historic ship's return to public display during a ceremony at the Submarine Force Museum, on September 9.

- USS Groton Sail

SUBASE New London Commanding Officer, Capt. Kenneth M. Curtin Jr. joined local officials and community members in the unveiling of the USS Groton Sail Monument in front of the Groton Public Library. For more than 100 years Groton, CT has been the Submarine Capital of the World. Since 1916, thousands of Submarines have trained and served here at our nation's first Submarine Base and the Navy's Submarine School. Hundreds of submarines have been designed and built by the men and women of Electric Boat.

Naval Submarine Base New London (SUBASE) Update 6 OCT 2022

○ Bells Across America

GROTON, Conn. – A bell somberly tolled over the Thames River as Naval Submarine Base (SUBASE) New London joined in the seventh annual “Bells Across America for Fallen Service Members” and held a special ceremony at the Submarine Force Museum, Sep. 22.

The event took place during Gold Star Remembrance Week and recognized Gold Star families as well as paid tribute to their lost loved ones. Gold Star families are those families of service members who lost their lives while in uniform. The ceremony was held within the Submarine Force Museum and was just one of many that took place at various locations across the nation. (USN)

○ Veterans from the USS George Marshall visit Submarine School

September 23rd, the U.S. Naval Submarine School was honored to host U.S. Navy Submarine veterans who served aboard the USS George C. Marshall. The group toured the base and attended the Basic Enlisted Submarine School graduation of which the class was named in honor of.

- Polinator Garden planted at Admiral Fife

Today, Submarine Base New London (SUBASE) personnel teamed up with the National Environmental Education Foundation in the planting of a pollinator garden within the Admiral Fife Recreation Park in Stonington, Connecticut in honor of National Public Lands Day, September 24, 2022.

- CT Maritime Heritage Festival

Sailors take part in the CT Maritime Heritage Festival

- Admiral Gray Visits SUBASE

Rear Admiral Scott Gray, Commander, Navy Region Mid-Atlantic, visited Naval Submarine Base New London, September 13-14, 2022. Here he and Captain Curtin, SUBASE ICO, view the waterfront to see day-to-day operations.

Respectfully Submitted by:
Steven Sadlowski, Community Planning & Liaison Officer - NSB New London
Steven.F.Sadlowski.civ@us.navy.mil